Stare

First Maa-yu*

*See http://www.seriouseats.com/recipes/2013/09/mayu-black-garlic-oil-for-ramen-recipe.html

Ah.

What're getting for lunch?

Soo hungry

Koizumi-san

Whatcha looking at?

Don't run away!

What was she looking at?

Yuu has always been into cute girls...

That was Koizumi-san just now, right?

?

Even though we ate ramen together, how cold...

Oh Right...

Tama, where are ya having lunch, the cafeteria?

Buying bread will suffice.

Too crowded so no.

What's with that...

Help me with the "Becoming Friends with Koizumi-san" plan!

Nah, First time hearing that.

I'll think about it...

Hand drawn poster

NEW MENU FOR APRIL

The First Local Ramen Fair

Kumamoto Ramen

Special made

"Maa-yu"*

"Horse oil"?

As I thought, she really does love ramen...

*Will be explained later

*Kumamoto ramen- the pride of Kyushu region, it is a variation of tonkotsu ramen with decidedly thicker straight noodles and a soup made with chicken stock as well as pork bones.

Misa?

Misa is not good with Koizumi-san~

EH...

How should I say this... Ever since she transferred, she has hardly spoken to anyone...

Somehow she has that cold aura...

.....

Well, in other words.

Compared to Misa, the popular girl want everyone to leave her alone.

Simple as that~

Let's not be jealous~

now, now

Be a good friend to everyone will ya? Misa is cute enough...

Between me and Koizumi-san, who's cuter?

What'd you say!?

Koi-zumi -san

Hah

It's peaceful today too

ガヤ

ガヤ

ガヤ

Mind if I sit here?

ガヤ

……

You again.

Ah, same as yours, Koizumi-san!

Me too, It's my first time trying the Kumamoto ramen.

Do as you like,

Not like I own the place.

I am extremely grateful

HAH

Slurp

What's this black color in this soup...?

Ah... got it!

It's that right? The one on the poster

"She read it as "Uma abura" which roughly means "Horse Oil"

"Horse oil"*

Hey, Hey

This ramen, it has a pork flavor but has this unique smell.

You don't want to eat vigorously when people are looking, huh?

That store...

I need to eat fast since people are still waiting outside.

...Maayu

No, I mean it's really good, this "horse oil"!

Seriously, what a wonderful pork and horse combination.

This "horse oil" has a really nice smell.

The horse' oil really goes well with the pork flavored soup.

EH?

in this case

but it's read as Maa-yu

Not "horse oil"

[Kurume style]
The original Kyudshu ramen.

It's percularity is that it has more substance than the original Kurume or Tamana style's due to the Maayu.

[Tamana style]
Based from the Kumamoto ramen
Made of garlic chip etc.

[Kumamoto style]
-Maayu in soup
Made of kikurage*, etc.

*A type of Mushroom

No, but it has something to do with "chicken".

The Kumamoto style soup is a mix of pig's bone and chicken bone.

It's often wirtten with the kanji for "horse oil" but

By the way, it's not oil from a horse.

It's the oil taken from roasted garlic.

It got Nothing to do with horses!?

Ahhh

For a normal cafeteria to have this, just to lessen the stink of garlic, is quite genuine...

She seems indifferent about it but, She has a pretty girly voice...

Ah

People call "Kyushuyu pork flavor" majorly in the Hakata-Nagahama style but, the Kumamoto style, however has thicker noodles...

It's what she likes so, she sure is giving me a lecture isn't she?

I want to try the their ramen!

How about we go there next time?

HEY!

Yeah, yeah, around here?

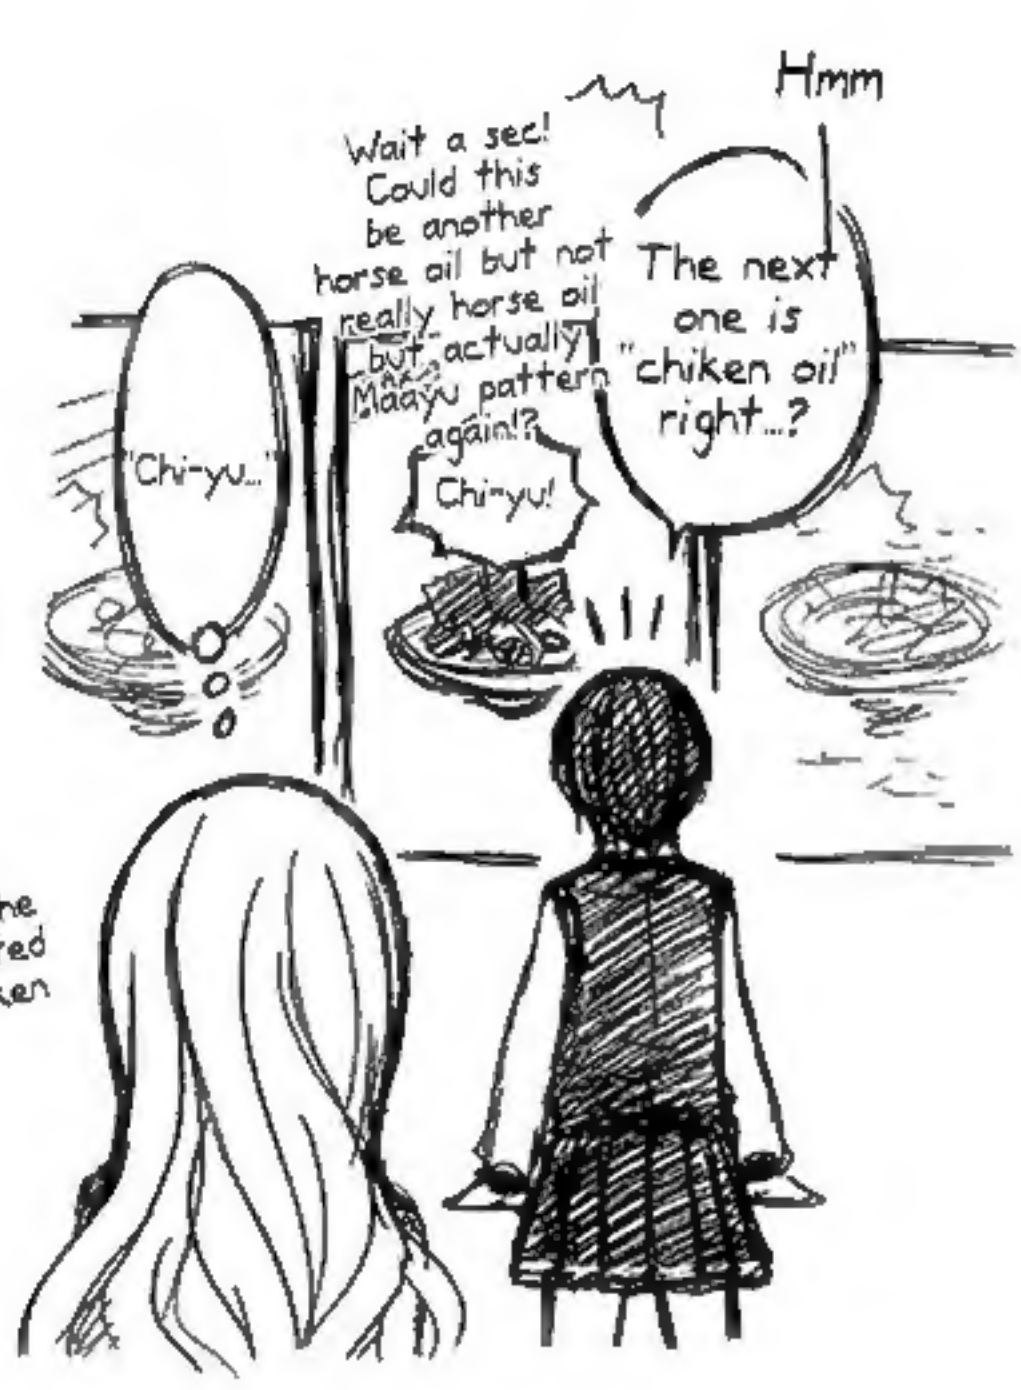
the stores that were opened recently around school-

Ah!

No.

Well today, she really talked a lot, didn't she!?

Okay!



"Chi-yu..."
Wait a sec! Could this be another horse oil but not really horse oil but actually Maayu pattern again!?
Chi-yu!
Hmm
The next one is "chiken oil" right...?

※ Chi-yu is the oil extracted from chicken skin.

Ms. Koizumi loves
ramen noodles.

Ramen Daisuki
Chapter 2
Biamam scans present
Koizumi san
Raws: Shiratori
Translation: ZeK
Rest: Rextor
Special help: Kuma-Kyun